Re-designing our offices

Over the last few months we have been improving our office interior and environment to reflect our brand expression and corporate identity. We believe our office environment should be inspiring and as unique as our brand.

Our key improvements have been redecorating the offices in our corporate colours of blue and grey. All chairs were recovered in our Outsource Blue, painted selected walls across the offices blue and put up signs for each department signifying their locations.

For the department signage we had a little fun with the names such as Sales Engine, Technical Hotshots and Awesome Admin. The main board room was christened the Boiler Room, our canteen was named Eat and our executive kitchen is now Dora's Domain!

The responses from the staff and visitors have been very positive and in the next few months we will be re-carpeting the office in the Outsource charcoal, redoing the exterior signage and re-designing our reception areas.
